World class contemporary art

Kunsthal Charlottenborg's winter season kicks off by presenting international contemporary art by highly acclaimed artists: A solo exhibition by the New Zealand artist, Michael Stevenson, and a group exhibition curated around the practice of and including American choreographer and visual artist, William Forsythe.

Michael Thouber, Director of Kunsthal Charlottenborg: "It is with great pleasure that we present Michael Stevenson and William Forsythe – two international super stars! I regard it as a fundamental part of Kunsthal Charlottenborg's job to introduce a Danish audience to new artists, new works and themes. These two exhibitions, which both have been produced especially for Kunsthal Charlottenborg, do just that."

Michael Stevenson Signs & Wonders

Kunsthal Charlottenborg is the first Scandinavian art institution to present a solo exhibition by the New Zealand artist Michael Stevenson (b. 1964). Signs & Wonders is new comprehensive installation created especially for the kunsthalle's spectacular galleries.

Six home-built flight simulators placed in a circle take exhibition visitors on a network of silent, imaginary plane rides using a physically constructed cockpit and a virtually constructed terrain in the form of computer software. The flights take us to remote areas in the highlands of Papua New Guinea, where small planes play a vital role in navigating the difficult terrain. Thus, the aeroplane holds particular significance for the local population as well as Christian missionaries in the region.

Connecting subjects such as religion, aviation, education, anthropology and globalisation, the exhibition continues on from Michael Stevenson's previous projects whose characteristic sculptural installations interlace anecdotes, history writing and current affairs.

Signs & Wonders is curated by Henriette Bretton-Meyer and is produced in collaboration with Midway Contemporary Art in Minneapolis, where the exhibition will be presented in 2016.

William Forsythe In the Company of Others

William Forsythe is nothing less than a super star in the world of dance and is considered to be one of the greatest living choreographers. Over the last ten years, William Forsythe has also made his mark as a visual artist with his choreographic objects, installations and video works.

Senses and movement

Walk through a multitude of hanging pendulums, try to hold a duster of nervous ostrich feathers without moving a single fibre, and experience a selection of other works by William Forsythe – objects and videos. In addition, you will meet a go-go dancer on a poetic, light blue podium in a work by Sturtevant and experience one of Bruce Nauman's iconic performance videos in contrast to a New York vogue dance in a video work by Rashaad Newsome.

This thematically curated exhibition William Forsythe – In the Company of Others, brings installations and video works by the world famous choreographer and visual artist into play with seven international contemporary visual artists: Manon De Boer (NL), Gerard Byrne (IRL), Maria Meinild (SE/DK), Bruce Nauman (US), Rashaad Newsome (US), Magnus Pettersen (NO) and Sturtevant (US). The works in the exhibition touch upon aspects of the relationship between body, space, objects and community

In the Company of Others

The show's curator, Mathias Kryger has thus assembled a temporary company of artists in this exhibition and highlights a community that exists across time, genres and artistic methods. Creating a conversation between the works dealing with the body's relationship to physical and mental space and not least the body's relationship to objects – and in particular, the art object.
